

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A new computing architecture that mimics the behavior of biological cells, called a Whole Cell Computer (WCC) is disclosed. The WCC is a computational architecture based on the biochemical processing of cells. It represents both a specialization and an extension of membrane computing . It is derived from the properties of biological cells and has extensive statistical redundancy built in. It can be programmed using genetic programming techniques.